The Erasmus Mundus Joint Master Degree in Sports Ethics and Integrity is an innovative multidisciplinary programme that will be a catalyst for a new profession within sports administration. It brings together high-level scholars in a consortium of six higher education institutions with a focus on vocationally orientated concerns.

The Master of Arts in Sports Ethics and Integrity (MAiSI) will equip students for high-level careers in sports administration and governance, concentrating on the development of stronger ethical sports cultures, and developing tools for sports integrity and compliance. Students will receive training that enables them to identify ethical issues, engage in ethical thinking, and translate decisions into ethical actions – the three core skills required to develop sports integrity.

Students will develop a sophisticated ethical mind-set and a range of transferable skills that are indispensable for addressing the ethical and integrity issues facing national and international sporting federations, national Olympic and Paralympic Committees with a focus on topics such as anti-doping, anti-discrimination, fair play, global sports governance, gambling, match-fixing and sport manipulation, safeguarding, Youth Olympics, Olympism and Paralympism.

During the first semester of the first year, students will be based at KU Leuven. The second semester will be completed at Charles University (Prague). During the first year, Swansea University professors become “flying faculty”, which means that their modules are taught both in Leuven and in Prague. In the second year, students complete the first semester at Johannes Gutenberg-Universität (Mainz) or Universitat Pompeu Fabra (Barcelona). The last semester is completed at one of the Consortium University partners, depending on the students' thesis specialism. At the end of the first and second year, students will attend the summer school run by the University of Peloponnese, focusing on Research Methods and Olympic Studies.

Profile and admission requirements

To be eligible for the Master of Arts in Sports Ethics and Integrity, you must have obtained a Bachelor's degree. Due to the interdisciplinary nature of the programme, we will consider applications from any discipline.

The KU Leuven Admissions Office is happy to advise you on whether your qualifications are suitable for entry to the course you would like to study. Please email admissions@kuleuven.be for further information.

You also have to provide evidence of your English proficiency. Good knowledge of the English language is essential. All applicants who have not obtained a previous diploma in a programme taught in English in Australia, English-speaking Canada, Ireland, New Zealand, the United Kingdom and the United States of America must submit a certificate proving their proficiency in English.

A full list of acceptable English Language tests can be found at www.kuleuven.be/english/admissions/lang
